
Spotlight on...

SOA Education Team

When we think about superheroes, we likely picture the caped and tighted crusaders of comic book lore. But under the steadfast leadership of Principal Catherine Gammage, Silver Oak Academy teaching staff have demonstrated that they are the real superheroes. Throughout the first wave of the pandemic, Silver Oak Academy educators continued to provide a blended learning model for their students. Where many educators might have been apprehensive, our Educational Team was galvanized, becoming even more committed to upholding our mission. Knowing that, on a national scale, academic performance had begun deteriorating during the pandemic, our teachers returned to the classroom, where they continued to push our students to graduate, enter college, and/or enlist in the United States Armed Forces. To our SOA Educational Team we say: by keeping our students on track at a time when many students across the country were slipping, you have proven yourselves to be genuine superheroes.
